UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

In Re:

NATURAL MOLECULAR TESTING
CORPORATION,

Debtor.

No. 13-19298-MLB

Beau Fessenden's Objection to Trustee's
Ex Parte Motion to File Reply Brief (Dkt
1074) and to Court's Order Granting Reply
(Dkt 1076)

Beau Fessenden objects to Trustee's Ex Parte Motion for Permission for Trustee to File Reply Brief (Dkt. 1074) and to Court's Order Allowing Trustee to File Reply Brief (Dkt 1076).

1. Denial of due process. Mr. Fessenden was given no opportunity to object to the motion and the court granted the motion only forty minutes after being filed. Mr.
Fessenden has been denied due process.
2. No new issues or arguments. The basis for the Trustee's motion is "new issues and arguments." None are identified and none exist. The court identified the 1 issues in its recent ruling and gave the Trustee two submissions to address them.

2 The documents submitted by Mr. Fessenden were either (i) taken from the 3 Trustee's prior submissions, or (ii) from the publicly available court file. Is the 4 Trustee asserting that he just learned that the Settlement Agreement has an 5 integration clause or that Washington law enforces them? Is the Trustee asserting 6 he just learned that the Estate promised to not enforce the judgment so long as 7 Mr. Fessenden was fulfilling his obligations? (The Trustee drafted the agreement
8 and also obtained Mr. Fessenden's signature on the Settlement Agreement
9 behind the back of the undersigned counsel.)
10

11 3. No opportunity to cure known defects. The court's prior ruling specifically 12 identified areas in which the Trustee lacked sufficient evidence. For example, the 13 court twice stated that the Duncanson easement issue might or might not be a 14 permissible deduction from gross proceeds. Nevertheless, the Trustee did not 15 introduce any other evidence with respect to the Duncanson easement. That was 16 a strategic choice and the court should not allow the Trustee to belatedly submit 17 any evidence.

18 4. Appearance of Fairness. The Trustee has already had two submissions, and Mr.
19 Fessenden one. A dispassionate observer could conclude that giving the Trustee
20 a third submission would not appear to be fair to Mr. Fessenden.

21 Mr. Fessenden moves the court to vacate its order granting the Trustee leave to file a 22 "reply."
